

October 18, 2011

Ms Gabina Funegra,
School of Languages and Linguistics
University of New South Wales.

Dear Ms Funegra,

I am writing to thank you for coming to the University of Wollongong to show your film 'Quechua: The fading Inca language' to our students of Spanish. The discussion after the film's screening showed that they not only enjoyed it but were moved, as I was, to feel concern about the inequities and discrimination experienced by Quechua speakers.

The copy that you were kind enough to leave with me will be added to the library's holdings and for that we are very grateful.

Best wishes with your future research, and if you produce another film like this on your new topic, I will look forward to seeing it.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Kerry Dunne', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Professor Kerry Dunne
Director, Language Centre
Faculty of Arts